

Irradiate This

77866 JUL 12 AM 15
Irradiation 'zaps' plants. It kills bugs dead. But there are a few reasons to be concerned about the process. It involves moving radioactive material around the country—always a risky proposition. And it doesn't prevent sloppy handling at the plant, at home, or in restaurants, which could recontaminate food after it's been zapped.

If you agree, please write or e-mail the officials listed below and tell them that irradiated foods need to carry a prominent disclosure, in easy-to-read type, on the front of the package. Thank you. Ans. H. Baschil